DIRECTIONS: Have the child read the passage for one minute. Record errors and number of words read. If a child pauses for more than three seconds on a word, give them the word and count it as an error.

Emma's father had a very small, empty back yard behind his house in the Bronx.	13 15
"Let's plant a tree, Emma," he said one cool and sunny Saturday. He and Emma drove to a nursery, and Emma picked out a maple whose leaves would turn fiery colors in the fall. Emma helped her father dig a hole in the middle of the yard and ease the tree upright.	29 43 59 67
"In a few years, it'll be a nice climbing tree," her father said.	80
As the tree grew taller and stronger, Emma loved to climb it while her father sat under its branches and read to her. But then, Emma's father got a job in Philadelphia, and he had to move.	94 108 117
"Aren't you going to take our tree with you?" Emma asked.	128
"No, Emma, the tree's too big to pull out of the ground. It'll stay here for the next people who live in the house."	144 152
Emma was sad that she wouldn't be able to see her tree anymore. One weekend, the landlord came by with a woman and her son who were going to live in the house.	166 180 185
"Look at that beautiful maple tree," the woman said. The boy ran to the tree and climbed until he found Emma's favorite branch.	199 208
"My dad and I planted it," Emma said, and the woman smiled.	220
"I bet you'll be happy thinking of all the people who will enjoy your tree," she said. Emma thought about it, and it did make her happy.	234 247
